Reduced Wages.
Chicago, Oct. 30.—The following is printed to-day: General surprise was caused among the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe employees yesterday, by the announcement that an order had been received to notify all yard men on this line that their wages would be reduced 10 per cent, beginning Thursday, Nov. 1. The only exception to this was in the case of those employed such as engineers and firemen who belonged to organized bodies or unions. This class was exempt for the reason, it is said, that it would not be advisable to court a strike. It is reported that the cut extends on every branch of the line.

THOMAS B. BARRY.

His Resignation from the Executive Board of the R. of L.

The resignation of Thomas B. Barry from the executive board of the Knights of Labor, though for some time expected, is one of many signs that the order is undergoing a sort of transformation. Mr. Barry has long entertained feelings of hostility to General Master Workman Powell, and in his letter of resignation, dated Oct. 3, at East Saginaw, Mich., he attacks the management savagely and predicts ruin to the order if the prevailing methods continue.

Thomas B. Barry was born July 17, 1852, at Cohoes, N. Y., and at the early age of 8 went to work in a knitting mill for $3 per month, an experience which made him an earnest advocate of trades unions as soon as he was old enough. He quit the mill at an early age and learned the trade of ax maker.

In 1889 he joined an attempt to organize that trade, which failed, and he was blacklisted by the manufacturers, and this made him an agitator and labor reformer for life. He has been arrested five times for organizing and leading strikes, but has often triumphed. Once he was put under $30,000 bail, and was sued by a lumber dealer for $10,000 damages, the trial resulting in a verdict against him for $2,900. Of course, all this only strengthened him with the organized workmen, and with the rise of the Knights of Labor he became prominent.

He served the order well in all ranks up to member of the executive board and other offices of the general assembly. He has the "grit" of an Irish-American and an unyielding tenacity of purpose.
